

The book was found

The AIDS Crisis: What We Can Do

Synopsis

Finalist, Fourth Annual Outreach Resource of the Year (2006) Over forty million people today are living with HIV/AIDS. In 2005, three million people died of AIDS, and half a million of them were children. The reality is dark. But in darkness, even one small flame of light makes a difference. And the church of Jesus Christ is bringing light into the darkness of the AIDS crisis all over the world. In Cambodia, the Way of Hope church is helping communities understand how AIDS is transmitted. And through their "Hope for Teens" program, small groups meet with a mentor to talk so that teenagers can make responsible choices about sexuality and education. In Rwanda, a church pairs up skilled workers in the congregation with children orphaned by AIDS to train and equip them. In Kigali, Rwanda, Pastor Augustin has taken in Tatu, whose extended family refused to take care of her when her parents died of AIDS. A Good Samaritan support group for men and women with AIDS also meets at their church. Like these churches, this book is a flame. Deborah Dortzbach and Meredith Long offer personal stories, up-to-date statistics and their years of international experience to give us the global portrait of AIDS: the roots of the problem and the role of the church. They teach us to listen. They allow us to observe. They help us become informed so that we can become involved, partnering with brothers and sisters already at work around the world loving, lobbying, caring, praying. "The light shines in the darkness, and the darkness has not overcome it" (Jn 1:5). Here is a book to help us see how the light of Christ shining through his church can change the course of the current AIDS crisis.

Book Information

File Size: 1279 KB

Print Length: 157 pages

Publisher: IVP Books (February 4, 2010)

Publication Date: February 4, 2010

Sold by: Amazon Digital Services LLC

Language: English

ASIN: B002VUBFWO

Text-to-Speech: Enabled

X-Ray: Not Enabled

Word Wise: Enabled

Lending: Not Enabled

Enhanced Typesetting: Not Enabled

Best Sellers Rank: #463,070 Paid in Kindle Store (See Top 100 Paid in Kindle Store) #20

in Kindle Store > Kindle eBooks > Medical eBooks > Diseases > AIDS & HIV #102

in Kindle Store > Health, Fitness & Dieting > Diseases & Physical Ailments > AIDS #161

in Kindle Store > Medical Books > Medicine > Internal Medicine > Pathology > Diseases > AIDS & HIV

Customer Reviews

The AIDS Crisis: What We Can Do is an excellent and unique resource for a Christian who wants to understand AIDS and respond to the devastation it is causing worldwide. The authors of The AIDS Crisis are not researchers, but practitioners. They have been involved in the heartbreaking, messy, and often frustrating work of responding to (and preventing) AIDS since the early days of the epidemic. Their many years of experience and reflection add a richness and authenticity (and sometimes painful honesty) to their writing. Throughout this book, the authors attempt to communicate the magnitude of the worldwide AIDS disaster, as well as the complexities involved in prevention and care, both through up-to-date statistics and stories. They make it clear that the present issue is not whether we (as Western Christians) should respond, but how and where. They teach us that AIDS ministry is more of a journey than a project. They challenge us to listen, build relationships, and share the burden with those who are already involved in AIDS ministry, before we leap to the task of designing programs and strategies. I was sometimes surprised, reading this book, at how frank the authors were in their discussion of the various issues involved in preventing AIDS transmission among various high risk groups. As Christians, the authors are honest about their struggles to balance grace and holiness in their efforts to prevent the spread of HIV and provide sanctuary to those infected. They admit that through their struggles over the past two decades, they have been transformed in ways they had not anticipated (p. 48). Depending on your background, you may be surprised or disturbed by their conclusions. In my opinion, however, this book's challenge to Christians to engage with people or viewpoints they do not agree with, as they work together to address the AIDS crisis, is one of its greatest strengths. Another strength of The AIDS Crisis is its interaction with Scripture. Through its retelling of the stories of the woman caught in adultery (from John), and the moral failings of David and his sons, it addresses the interaction of grace and holiness, as well the violence (on different levels) caused by sexual sin (reflected in the AIDS epidemic). The authors challenge us to look inward as well as outward, examining our own views and practices concerning AIDS, sex, sin, and forgiveness. The AIDS Crisis clearly calls us, the readers, to respond to the crisis. To help us, there are excellent personal reflection questions and action steps at the end of each chapter, as well as group discussion questions at the end of the book. The authors do not promise that our engagement will be easy, or even personally rewarding (in the way we often define rewarding). Instead, they make it clear that involvement in AIDS ministry will involve personal distress and suffering. "AIDS ministry is painful, it is long, and it has few tangible rewards (p. 133)." Only through dwelling in the sanctuary of God, and responding to his leading, can Christians persevere in this calling. "Only as we recognize that the tapestry of response is not emerging by happenstance, but that God is actively weaving us into the fabric of his compassion, are we renewed (p.135)."The AIDS Crisis both informed and challenged me, and I highly recommend it.

This book gives a personal approach to the overwhelming issues of AIDS. The authors are vulnerable; the personal stories are compelling. The book does not aim for easy answers to hard questions, but approaches hard questions with compassion and personal experience. (In particular, I found the retelling of Jesus' interaction with the 'woman caught in adultery' stunning.) This book is important for all readers, no matter what their stances on AIDS treatment and prevention. The book educates, yes, but more importantly, it moves its readers to do what Jesus would have done: it moves us to see the faces, to hear the stories, to listen, and then to act in compassion. It is not "those poor people out there" who are affected by this disease--it is our sisters and brothers.

While this does address what can be done to curb the HIV crisis in Africa it does it at the expense of the Gospel. This book uses scripture out of context and thanks to the misguided writings of NT Wright it actually makes you part of God's saving work rather than Christ alone. In fact if you read this as written you would have to wonder if Christ's death on the cross was even sufficient. Christian--I ask you what good does it do to stop an HIV epidemic if the people still die in their sin and do not have eternal life! How about go in with all this help and while you are helping do the most loving thing of all--share the true Gospel using words! Let them know they are sinners who will stand guilty before God and let them know of the atonement made for them by Christ's death and resurrection. If you desire to be the discerning Christian the Bible calls you to be please don't buy this book.

Download to continue reading...

The AIDS Crisis: What We Can Do White Nights and Ascending Shadows: A History of the San Francisco AIDS Epidemic (AIDS Awareness) Women's Experiences with HIV/AIDS: Mending Fractured Selves (Haworth Psychosocial Issues of HIV/AIDS) Sande's HIV/AIDS Medicine: Medical

Management of AIDS 2013, 2e AIDS: Science And Society (AIDS (Jones and Bartlett)) Social Networks, Drug Injectors - Lives, and HIV/AIDS (Aids Prevention and Mental Health) AIDS: Science & Society (AIDS (Jones and Bartlett)) Infectious Ideas: U.S. Political Responses to the AIDS Crisis AIDS: Crisis in America : A Reference Handbook (Contemporary World Issues) Going Public: My Adventures Inside the SEC and How to Prevent the Next Devastating Crisis: My Adventures Inside the SEC and How to Prevent the Next Devastating Crisis Crisis and Trauma: Developmental-ecological Intervention (Crisis Intervention) INVISIBLE PREPPER - DISAPPEAR FROM BIG BROTHER'S RADAR & PROTECT ASSETS IN THE COMING CRISIS - 2016 EDITION (Prepping, Survival, Crisis, Privacy & Security) (HOW TO BOOK & GUIDE TO AVOID DISASTER) Summary - Hillbilly Elegy: Book by J. D. Vance - A Memoir of a Family and Culture in Crisis (Hillbilly Elegy - A Memoir of a Family and Culture in Crisis ... - Book, Paperback, Hardcover, Audible 1) Tinderbox: How the West Sparked the AIDS Epidemic and How the World Can Finally Overcome It A Man, a Can, a Microwave: 50 Tasty Meals You Can Nuke in No Time (Man, a Can... Series) The Great Divergence: America's Growing Inequality Crisis and What We Can Do about It You Can Profit From A Monetary Crisis Can We Avoid Another Financial Crisis? (The Future of Capitalism) The Patent Crisis and How the Courts Can Solve It The New Urban Crisis: How Our Cities Are Increasing Inequality, Deepening Segregation, and Failing the Middle Class; and What We Can Do About It

Contact Us

DMCA

Privacy

FAQ & Help