Customer Reviews

I am reading everything's on my Kindle keyboard before I start using my Paperwhite. Came across a whole bunch of books by J D Robb and I have been binging on them this week. J D Robb, as you probably know, also writes romance as Norah Roberts. Writing as J D Robb, however, her style is darker and grittier. This is a series of mysteries set in the not too far distant future when the earth has colonized a lot of planets, societal norms have changed in some ways, yet law and order remains law and order and the police are there to protect and serve. This series chronicles the cases of Eve Dallas as she investigates murders and believes it is her vocation to stand for the dead, to see that they get justice. In my opinion, a person is going to love these books or hate them, I happen to love them. Well written, strongly developed characters, detailed plots. Someone is doing research and I appreciate that. Of course, there are some love stories woven in because that is part of life, after all, it can't be all grim.

Why you should read/listen to this book. If you have already read or are new to the series I highly recommend the audio version of this book by Susan Ericksen. The narrator is a wonderful voice actor and brings unique richness and depth to each of the character's voices and personalities.
Highlights as why you should Mavis Freestone is a great character and she is given center stage and a love interest in Leonardo.
Delilah Peabody is given a huge amount of book time. Love and adore this partnership.
What happened to Eve as a child is explored. Summerset's past revealed.
Dr. Mira starts to play a larger role in Eve's life.
Eve and Roarke's wedding plans.
Plus murder most foul.

4.5 stars!
After basically years of seeing this series around and reading about this mystical Roarke, I gave in and decided to read the In Death Books. It was quite an undertaking, since when I started there were 33 books already released in the series, not counting short stories and novellas. Besides that, deciding to read this series was a big commitment in two fronts. One, I simply had to by 33 books and secondly, I would not be reading anything else until I was done. That's how psychotic I can be when it comes to book series.
December 2011 was when my journey began and by February 2012 I was done and now there is NO turning back. I am IN LOVE with this series! I not only obviously love Roarke, but I love Eve and all the secondary characters that make up this great story as well. Yes, I have become irritated with Eve at times, but I adored being able to see her grow throughout the series. It has been quite a ride, but one I will never regret hopping aboard. This series is a great mix of mystery, police drama and romance. I love every aspect of it, from the near futuristic setting, to the way J.D. Robb writes her prose. If there is one thing that bothers me, is that considering the series has 35 books published, the span of time that has passed is very short and I wish the lapse between books was a bit longer. But if you read the books throughout a longer period of time, it won't really matter, but reading them so close together made me wish for that longer lapse.
Eve is such a complex character. All that she has been through has made who she is, but her story is not less heartbreaking because of it. For that matter, so is Roarke's and the fact that these two found each other is nothing less than serendipity. They need each other and I am sure they would never have grown to be who they are in the series by book 35, if not for each other's presence in their lives. Not to mention the "family" they have built with their dear friends.
One of the biggest issues brought up in this series by J.D. Robb, is the Nature Vs. Nurture debate. I love it! It always makes me think and it is very satisfying to see these people that could have become something very wrong, rise above nature and blood, to become amazing people.
On the crime fighting aspect of the series, I find that Robb uses two types of narrative. Sometimes she carries more of a "Monk" style, where the perpetrator is clear if not early on, but soon. The other one is where we get a punch in the face when we finally find out who it is. I really enjoy that she doesn't have only one style, since that always keeps me guessing =DI LOVE this series and if you have yet to check it out, please do so! The first few books might not compel you completely, but keep reading! You won't regret it!

I never put spoilers in my reviews. J D Robb (Nora Roberts) is one of the few authors I reread. Everything about the "In Death" novels is quality writing and defies genre labeling. From the relationship between Dallas and Rourke, the mystery/thriller storyline, an extremely strong female role model, the secondary characters, the setting, well, everything, you just can't wait for the next one. As a dedicated sci-fi reader, as well, her world building is absolutely excellent; reminds me a bit of Heinlein. Robb shows that a woman can be strong and capable despite soul crippling events in her life. I have a mantra, "just step over it and move on." Eve Dallas personifies this. It doesn't mean you never think of it or that you forget but life goes on. Dallas "stands for the dead," they are hers, no matter who or what they were in life and she grieves for their lost futures. To her it's almost a sacred trust and she is uncompromising in her pursuit of justice for those in her care. I think even most men would like these books, if for no reason than to see how women would like to be treated. Read, enjoy, repeat.

How many people have died searching for the fountain of youth? Well at least a few more in the late 2050s. You really can't live forever, but if you learn about life from Eve Dallas, you discover that more important than sex, money, and power is love and friendship. In this addition to Robb's series, Eve seeks to free Mac from murder charges. Unfortunately everything she uncovers serves to make Mavis look guiltier. Mac isn't worried, but Eve is, especially since her wedding is fast approaching. I love this novel. I could eat Roarke up with a spoon.
