PreS-K-Another winner in the further adventures of the familiar five. It’s Halloween and the siblings are excited to choose their costumes-alien, banana, ghost, goblin, and princess-and go trick-or-treating with their babysitter, Lulu. While traversing the neighborhood, each monkey sees a youngster with an even-better costume and manages to switch, so all five of them have “tricked” Lulu along the way. The adults figure out what’s going on, and the five little monkeys get a taste of their own medicine when it appears they will be left out of the big treat awaiting them at home. After a mild admonishment from Mama for trying to hoodwink Lulu, the five and their friends celebrate the holiday with treats. The digitally rendered pen, ink, and color illustrations showcase a variety of simple, homemade costumes and ideas for a holiday celebration. Eyeball Cookies and Worm Juice, anyone? Recipes at the book's conclusion tell how to make the yummy treats for would-be tricksters.-Maryann H. Owen, Racine Public Library, WI (c) Copyright 2013. Christelow's five little monkeys are natural tricksters, making them perfect subjects for a Halloween story. Lulu, their favorite babysitter, is a diligent but relaxed chaperone, the perfect candidate for one of their tricks. But wait, does she have a trick of her own? The subtle twist at the end of the story, along with pictorial hints, will encourage discussion of just how much she and Mama know about the fivesome's shenanigans. Young readers will enjoy Lulu's efforts to keep track of her young charges, dressed tonight as a banana, ghost, goblin, princess, and alien. But when they decide to change costumes with a robot, television, grapes, pumpkin, and blue bunny, the fun begins. The energetic siblings in full costume dominate every page, along with their obliging friends. The illustrations, executed digitally in pen, ink, and color, begin with pumpkins and bats on the endpapers (symbols that continue throughout the book) and conclude with recipes for eyeball cookies and worm juice, perfect Halloween treats for readers as well as monkeys. Preschool-Kindergarten. --Eddie Ching --This text refers to the Digital edition.

The children & grandchildren I babysit LOVE these monkey books! We all laugh at the silly monkeys the their adventures!!!

Cute book that has repetition that my granddaughter knows just what to say!

Such a cute book!

My grandchildren loved it!

My daughter loves the Five Little Monkeys books. I love them because they are perfect for early readers. This is the only one she didn't have, so it will be a nice Halloween surprise!

Absolutely adore the new take on this old story. We have majority of the series and working towards all of them. Our kiddo loves his "ooh ooh" books as much as we do!

Those monkeys are up to it again. My daughter loves reading about the five little monkeys. This book doesn't disappoint with their Halloween mayhem.

For any of you who have already read some of the books in this series, you will already know that anything in the series is a hit. For any who are not familiar, this is a great kid series! We have all of them, and I don't know a child who doesn't enjoy them! This is a very cute Halloween story, and includes recipes in the back of the book for the treats in the story.
